

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

In a bus control device including an external interface, internal units, a memory interface, and an internal bus, the memory interface monitors the usage pattern of the internal bus, and in a case where the internal unit is not
5 using the internal bus, a priority processing interval for allowing only the external interface to use the internal bus is set, thereby prohibiting the internal units from using the internal bus during the priority processing interval.